Radon

© Crown copyright and database rights 2025. Ordnance Survey licence 100035207

The property is in a radon affected area, meaning there is an increased risk that properties will contain elevated levels of radon.

In order to determine if there is a problem at your property, a radon measurement in the building must be taken. Access to a testing service and further information on radon is available from UK Health Security Agency (UKHSA) or www.ukradon.org.

Radon is a colourless, odourless radioactive gas present in all areas of the United Kingdom, usually at levels that pose a negligible risk. However, the property is situated in an area where levels of radon can be much higher and pose a health risk. High levels of radon can cause lung cancer, particularly for smokers and ex-smokers. The higher the level and the longer the period of exposure, the greater the risk.

Conservation Areas

Conservation Areas exist to protect special architecture and historic interest in an area. It may mean that the property is located in or close to a beautiful or architecturally interesting place to live. There may be extra planning controls restricting some development. This particularly applies to developing the outside of the building and any trees at the property.

Listed Buildings

The presence of listed buildings means there will be extra control over what changes can be made to that building's interior and exterior. If the property itself is a listed building, owners will need to apply for Listed Building Consent for most types of work that affect the 'special architectural or historic interest' of the property and the work approved may increase costs.

Registered Parks and Gardens

Registered parks or gardens are a designed landscape considered of historic interest.

Although the inclusion of a historic park or garden on the register in itself brings no additional statutory controls, local authorities are required by central government to consider registration material in planning terms, so local planning authorities must take into account the historic interest of the site when determining whether or not to grant planning permission.

Air Quality

Modelled Air Quality Readings

Defra publishes Background Concentration Maps of airborne pollutants, nitrous oxides (NO<sub>2</sub> and NO<sub>x</sub>) and particulate matter (PM<sub>10</sub> and PM<sub>2.5</sub>), for each year for Local Air Quality Management (LAQM) purposes.

The map for each year is modelled based on air quality monitoring and meteorological data. The maps divide the country into sectors. The concentrations for each sector account for pollution emitted within the sector itself and pollution that arrives from elsewhere, for example blown in by the wind. Further information on air quality monitoring can be viewed at: <https://uk-air.defra.gov.uk/data/pcm-data> ↗

The data presented here is the total estimated concentration of each pollutant in the sector that the site resides in, and the air quality objectives for each pollutant, which are taken from Defra's LAQM Technical Guidance document.

Pollutant	Local modelled reading (annual average)	UK Air Quality Objective (annual average)	UK Air Quality Objective (variable)
NO <sub>x</sub>	20 µg/m <sup>3</sup>	30 µg/m <sup>3</sup>	N/A
NO <sub>2</sub>	14 µg/m <sup>3</sup>	40 µg/m <sup>3</sup>	200 µg/m <sup>3</sup> (per hour - not be exceeded more than 18 times a year)
PM <sub>10</sub>	11 µg/m <sup>3</sup>	40 µg/m <sup>3</sup>	50 µg/m <sup>3</sup> (per 24hr period - not be exceeded more than 35 times a year)
PM <sub>2.5</sub>	6 µg/m <sup>3</sup>	25 µg/m <sup>3</sup>	N/A

Notes

Pollutant	Details
NO <sub>x</sub>	NO <sub>2</sub> and NO are both oxides of nitrogen and together are referred to as nitrogen oxides (NO <sub>x</sub> )
NO <sub>2</sub>	Nitric oxide (NO) is mainly derived from road transport emissions and other combustion processes such as the electricity supply industry. NO is not considered to be harmful to health. However once released to the atmosphere NO is usually very rapidly oxidized mainly by ozone (O <sub>3</sub> ) to nitrogen dioxide (NO <sub>2</sub> ) which can be harmful to health.
PM <sub>10</sub>	Particulate Matter less than 10µm in aerodynamic diameter. Particles less than or equal to 10 micrometers in diameter are so small that they can get into the lungs potentially causing serious health problems. Ten micrometers is less than the width of a single human hair.
PM <sub>2.5</sub>	Particulate Matter less than 2.5µm in aerodynamic diameter. Particles less than or equal to 10 micrometers in diameter are so small that they can get into the lungs potentially causing serious health problems. Particles of this size can only be seen with an electron microscope.
